Sodexo Lab Instrument Services wins PFM Expert Services Award 2007

Sodexo Lab Instrument services (Sodexo LIS), working alongside GlaxoSmithKline Research and Development, has scooped the much coveted Premises and Facilities Management award for Partners in Expert services 2007.

This prestigious national award recognises the partnerships and innovation between clients and suppliers with specific skills and expertise in engineering and technical support services.

It was noted by the judges that Sodexo LIS had demonstrated best value by reducing costs significantly whilst enabling greater equipment uptime in their operation and had clearly delivered innovation and change in a processed and positive manner.

Sodexo LIS was also short listed in last month's BIFM industry awards as one of the top three businesses for customer services in the engineering category.

Sodexo LIS services include: solution repair services, de-commissioning, installation services, laboratory moves, preventative maintenance, calibration, operational qualification, full account management, financial reporting, asset management IT solution.

Philip Fairhurst, business development manager, Sodexo LIS said: "We are delighted to win the PFM Expert Services award. This caps a remarkable year for Sodexo LIS working with GSK and reflects the close partnership we have with our clients".
